The secret

Henry Cooper was a journalist. He was on his second visit to the Moon, away from the crowded Earth. He knew something was strange. People didn't want to talk to him. Cooper decided to find out the secret. He telephoned the Police Chief, Chandra, an old friend of his.

"You know everything that's happening on the Moon, Chandra. So, why are people trying to hide things from me?"

"No idea," Chandra said. "I'll start asking some questions."

The Police Chief promised to find out about the secret. Two weeks later they met. They left the city in a Moon car and drove towards the research center. Cooper could see the Earth, low in the southern sky. Finally, they came to a large modern building and went in. It was Sunday morning and the research center was empty. They went into a big laboratory in the center of the building. It was full of different plants and small animals from Earth. Waiting there was a short, grey-haired man. He looked very worried and unhappy.

"Dr. Hastings," said Chandra. "This is Mr. Cooper. He is a journalist from Earth."

Dr. Hastings took out a small brown animal from a container.

"Do you know what this is?" Dr. Hastings asked.

"Of course," said Cooper. "A hamster – used in laboratories everywhere."

"Yes," said Hastings. "But this hamster is five years old."

"Well? What's strange about that?"

"Hamsters only live for two years. And we have some here that are nearly ten years old."

"So - you've found a way to make life longer!"

"Oh, no," Hastings said. "We've not found it. The Moon has given it to us ... On Earth," he went on, "we live with gravity. Everything we do is hard work for our bodies. But here on the Moon, a body has to do only a sixth of that work."

"I see," said Cooper. "Ten years for a hamster – and how long for a human?"

"On the Moon," said Dr. Hastings, "a human will live at least two hundred years."

"And you want to keep it a secret!"

"Don't you understand? Think of all the people on Earth. Six billion people on a small, crowded planet. And now we find that we can leave for two hundred years. Imagine what they're going to
