Chocolate

Do you know that people celebrate World Chocolate Day? It takes place every year on July 7th. We cannot imagine our lives without chocolate. We eat chocolate sweets and drink hot and cold chocolate drinks. The chocolate we enjoy today is made from many different ingredients, but the most important one is cacao beans.

The story of cacao beans and their long journey to shops and supermarkets all over the world started hundreds of years ago in Mexico. Cacao trees grow best in warm, rainy places, and they originally grew in the Yucatan Peninsula. The Maya were the first people to use cacao beans. They picked cacao beans from wild trees and cleared land to grow their own. They made a drink from cacao beans, but it was bitter because they did not add sugar.

The Maya also used cacao beans as money to buy goods from other tribes. They used cacao beans in religious ceremonies too. The Maya traveled north and introduced cacao beans to the Aztec people. Soon, cacao beans became important to many different cultures. The Aztecs could not grow cacao trees because their climate was too dry. When the Aztecs conquered the Maya, they demanded cacao beans as tribute. The Aztecs mixed cacao beans with vanilla or chili peppers to make their drinks.

Later, people began to grow cacao trees in different countries. For example, Ecuador was once the world's number-one producer of cocoa beans. Today, it is still one of the top ten producers, but more than 70 percent of cocoa beans now come from West Africa.

Hello, my name is Tatiana, and I am currently in Tula. This city is famous for its rich history and is known as the birthplace of the samovar and gingerbread. I am here with my cousin Alexey and our friend Irina. On our first day, we visited the Tula Kremlin, which is a beautiful historical fortress with impressive walls and towers. After exploring the Kremlin, we went to a local café to try Tula gingerbread, which is sweet and delicious! The next day, we visited the Tula State Museum of Weapons, where we learned about the history of weaponry and saw many interesting exhibits. I am having a wonderful time and can't wait to share more about my adventures with you!
